TRACTION LINES ACROSS THE RIVER

To Be Projected Through Metropolis and Brookport

Eastern Capitalists Are Investigating Situation and May Conclude This Week.

TO TAP THE MINING DISTRICT.

Indications point to an interurban traction line for southern Illinois, and a delegation of capitalists are now in the field investigating the situation. The line is projected between Metropolis and Brookport, Golconda, Harrisburg and intermediate points, with the purpose of eventually reaching Belleville and East St. Louis.

It is said that a promoter has raised a large subscription in the towns on the line, and has secured rights of way over a greater part of the route.

The route proposed will tap the river towns, a good farming section and the mining districts of southern Illinois, and it is said to be the purpose of the promoter to engage in freight as well as passenger hauling.

The investigation probably will be concluded this week or early next week, when it will be known what sort of a report the capitalists, who represent interests in New York, will carry back with them.

PERILOUS POSITION.

Held by Engineer on Switch Engine in I. C. Yards.

A. W. Shepherd, engineer on switch engine No. 85, in the Illinois Central yards, is able to be out today for the first time since Monday, December 24. He had a narrow escape from death. His engine left the tracks and turned over while mounting the coal chute with four loaded coal cars. He was pinned under the engine and did not get out until assisted after the big machine stopped. The coal cars were stopped by the automatic brakes which saved them from coming back on the engine. Engineer Shepherd's back was sprained.

BIG TREE

WILL BE EXPOSED TONIGHT AT RESCUE MISSION.

Fully Six Hundred Are Expected to Be Present and Receive Gifts Generously Donated.

The biggest Christmas tree ever had in Paducah will contain toys, and food and clothing for the poor at Union Rescue Mission tonight. The tree is exposed at 7:30 o'clock, and it is the hope of the Rev. and Mrs. R. W. Chiles that everyone who goes will receive something. Last year 500 were present, and this year it is predicted that fully 600 will be in attendance.

This big Christmas tree feature was originated by The Sun, which finally was forced to turn the affair over to the active management of the mission as it grew so popular as to become unwieldy except in connection with an institution of that kind. But The Sun has always fostered it and taken up a collection for the tree through the columns of the paper. Merchants have responded most liberally to appeals and the gifts will be worthy of the effort.

DEATH WINS RACE; WOUNDED MAN DIES

John Wurth Expires While Hurrying To Paducah

Accidentally Shot His Right Shoulder and Arm Away While Hunting.

HOME WAS BEYOND LONE OAK.

With his right shoulder and arm torn to shreds by the discharge of a shotgun, John Wurth, a farmer, lost a 10-mile race against death yesterday afternoon and died in Guy Nance & Son's ambulance, while being hurried to Riverside hospital. His body was taken to the undertaking parlors of Nance & Son.

John Wurth and his brother, Nortsey Wurth went hunting yesterday morning. Before climbing a fence a half mile from their home beyond Lone Oak, John Wurth stood his gun against the fence. On gaining the other side he grasped the barrel and started to pull the weapon through.

There was a sudden explosion and the unfortunate man fell in a heap. John Wurth ran to his assistance and found his entire right shoulder and arm blown into shreds. He tried to carry John Wurth home, but the burden was too great. Running home he secured his horse and buggy and brought the wounded man to the house.

Dr. C. L. Shelton of Lone Oak, saw the wounds were serious and called for the ambulance. It started shortly before dusk and was driven back as rapidly as possible, but the patient gradually sank and just as Wallace park was passed, he died.

John Wurth was 45 years old and a substantial farmer. He is survived by his wife and five children.

The body of Wurth was prepared for burial this morning and taken back to his home. The funeral hour has not been determined, but will be sometime tomorrow morning.

Coroner Frank Eaker was notified this morning of the accident and will make an investigation.

DEFENDS BROTHER IN POLICE COURT

T. C. Smith Succeeds in One Case But Fails in Other

Carrying Concealed a Deadly Weapon Earns for Him Jail Sentence and Fine.

"BEARSKIN" JACKSON WAIVES

T. C. Smith, grocer and saloon keeper, at Finley and Sixth streets, turned lawyer this morning and defended his brother successfully in a malicious assault and breach of peace case, but failed in a case for carrying concealed a deadly weapon.

On Monday, December 24, Charles Smith, a brother of the proprietor, was left in charge of the saloon. James Jones got hysterical and after insisting on Smith's fighting him was accommodated. Smith used his teeth on Jones' nose with effect. Jones grew angry after he thought about it and went back for more, Smith drawing a small pocket knife but being held to prevent its use.

Jones was fined $20 and "trimmings" for breach of peace and Smith was dismissed. Smith was also dismissed on the charge of malicious assault.

When the warrant, charging Smith carrying concealed a deadly weapon, was called the stumbling block for "attorney" was met.

"Thirty dollars and costs and ten days in jail against Smith," was the judgment of the court.

"Bearskin" Jackson Waives.

"Bearskin" Jackson, colored, who shot at Conductor Will White on a Rowlandtown car, waived examination and furnished a cash bond of $200 for his appearance in circuit court.

Robert Lee Hawkins, charged with obtaining money by false pretenses, was granted a continuance.

Other cases: Will Schroeder, nuisance, held until January 15; Tom Lynch, drunkenness, $1 and costs and suspended if he leaves the city; Walter Barnhill, colored, flourishing a pistol, left open; Albert McReynolds, colored, striking his wife, continued.

JEWELERS ARE TAKING CLOCK SIGNS DOWN ON BROADWAY TODAY

No longer will pedestrians on Broadway looking up behold great clocks and watches suspended overhead with their hands pointing stolidly to the hour of the death of a great man. Jewelers today are taking down the signs, because every sort of swinging or projecting sign, except the electric sign erected under direction of the board of public works, must be removed before January 1. Warrants will be taken out for the belated ones on that date.

PALATE GONE

TIN HORN PUNCTURES ROOF OF BOY'S MOUTH.

Val Forrest, Son of Henry Forrest, Falls and Sustains Serious Injury.

Only the fortunate position of a horn which little Val Forrest, four years old, was blowing saved him from probable fatal injury, but he is suffering the loss of his soft palate as a result of an accident in which the tin horn took a prominent part.

NEEDS NEW FLOOR.

Heavy Aerial Truck Sinks in at the Fire Station.

A matter the incoming general council will be asked to consider is the floor in the No. 1 fire station. It is absolutely necessary.

The heavy aerial ladder truck is causing the trouble. The brick floor where the truck stands has been worn and sunken in until it is a hard matter to get the truck started out of the building. Brick will not be a substantial enough material and it has been suggested that either concrete or bituminous compound be used.

FAVORS VIADUCT ON TENNESSEE ST.

Mayor May Mention in His Message--Select Police And Firemen

Lower Board of General Council Will Consider Amended License Ordinance.

REPORT ON LIGHTING PLANT

A viaduct over the Illinois Central tracks on Tennessee street, is one of the recommendations Mayor Yelzer probably will make to the general council in his annual message next month. There is a large district west of the Illinois Central tracks that has but two outlets, over Broadway and Tennessee streets. The streets are ten blocks apart, and when residents of that section go by way of Tennessee street they incur great danger, as the tracks are a block apart and horses are easily frightened by trains backing over the street.

Council Meets Tonight.

Mayor Yelzer has called the lower board of the general council to meet tonight in special session to concur in the action of the board of aldermen, amending the license ordinance, reducing the licenses of brewery agents and druggists selling liquors.

Police Commissioners.

Police and firemen are interested in the brief meeting of the board of police and fire commissioners scheduled for tonight, when the thirty patrolmen and police officers and firemen will be appointed. Few changes are anticipated, other than to increase the police force. It is said Frank Smidley, formerly market master will be taken care of, and there may be some shifting in the detective force and at the police station.

Lighting Plant Report.

In accordance with instructions of the general council J. O. Keebler, superintendent of the city lighting plant, and John W. Holmes, expert employed by the general council, are inspecting the hills of the General Electric company, from which the new equipment of the municipal plant was purchased, and making a thorough test of the apparatus. This will be completed Monday, when a report will be ready for the boards.

Thanks Bernhelm Bros.

SWORD OF PAUL JONES.

In Practically Same Condition as It Was When Used.

Washington, Dec. 28.—In practically the same condition as when it was used by its distinguished owner, the sword of John Paul Jones now rests in the library of the navy department, where it has been placed by Commander Reginald Nicholson.
It is believed that the weapon ordinarily was given to Jones by the North Carolina faculty of that name at the time he changed his own name in compliment to them. The sword was given by Jones to Theodora Burr, daughter of Aaron Burr. Theodora Burr, after marrying Joseph Alston, a wealthy and talented young planter of South Carolina, who in after years became governor of the state, presented the sword to Judge Matthew Davis, of Charleston, who gave it to the Rev. Dr. Duchachet, of Philadelphia. The latter gave it to Commodore Summerville Nicholson, and the commodore gave it to its present owner, Commander Nicholson.

THEATRICAL NOTES

AT THE KENTUCKY.
Friday, matinee and night—Hoyt's
"A Bunch of Keys."

Paul Gilmore a hit.

Never were the elemental emotions of a fashionable audience more stirred by the direct appeal of pure melodrama than they were last night when Paducahans from pit to gallery gripped their seats in anxiety lest Dick Seeley, stroke oar "At Yale," should be too late to enter the Harvard match. Paul Gilmore in the role made a hit, made the women fall in love with his eyes and his smile,
and his boyishly awkward shoulders, and made a speech. What more could an actor ask? "At Yale" in a melodrama from start to finish.
There is nothing subtle. It has a villain, but mark ye! A school boy villain, and there are such in real life. Then it has a hero, a school boy hero, and every school has one, but not every school such an one as Paul Gilmore. The hero has a girl, of course, or wants one, and the villain very naturally wants the same girl. So he "knocks on" the hero and hires thugs to prevent the hero pulling stroke oar in the Yale-Harvard match, a position for which the villain is substitute. The first act is best because it represents a college man's room and the scene carried many a spectator back a few decades, more or less. The rest of the play is interesting and exciting, but not to be compared with the comedy of the first act. Paul Gilmore is tall, dark, handsome, with a fine deep voice and eyes, and such a smile! Had he the temperament, we would like to see him undertake such romantic characters as the younger Salvini made popular. But Mr. Gilmore is an American, and therefore, essentially the comedian. Everybody last night applauded the places where the hero got the best of it, and they were numerous, and the pit sympathized with the gallery in every hiss accorded to the villain. The support was helped make the evening pass pleasantly. The performance was late in beginning.

"A Bunch of Keys" Tonight.

Hoyt's justly famous musical comedy, "A Bunch of Keys" enters upon its season's fun campaign with the proudest record. While the mainstay of its amusing incidents has been allowed to remain intact, the general outline of its splendid entertainment qualities has been subjected to a more than generous infusion of popular song creations. "A Bunch of Keys" in a brand new polish will be the special attraction at The Kentucky tonight.

Romeo and Juliet.

Romeo and Juliet is a play that will never grow old, for love is as new today as it was in the times of the Montagues and Capulets. Two noble houses in Verona have quarreled on a pretext so slight that it is called an "airy word," just as many another quarrel starts today.
The house of Montague has an only son—the Capulets an only daughter.
The quarrel has progressed so far that the relatives and servants take it up and whenever the two factions meet in the street a pitched battle is the result. A great ball was given one night by the Capulets, to which the rank and fashion of Verona had been invited. The guests were to Testimonial to Modjeska.

No other actress by the announcement of a farewell tour could have excited more interest and inspired more regret than Mine, Helena Mod-jeska, whose last appearance in this city will be made at The Kentucky on January 4, in "Mary Stewart." Her visits in classic repertoire have been among the most delightful events in our theatrical history. She has endeared herself to the public by her personal qualities as well as by her art. Her aim always has been to present great dramas as they should be given, and she has never sacrificed her ideals to commercialism.

Philippines, and being subject to graveled in front of this land. Has 757 feet front on Hinkleville Gravel Road, and plat gives 40 feet cross roads through the tract, so that each and every lot fronts either on these gravel roads or these newly opened roads. Most of the lots front at each end on these roads. No nicer land in Mc-Cracker county. The 20 acres front on Hinkleville road has nice grove of forest trees on it and lays so as to make ideal residence sites.

Price on the Hinkleville road front is $100.00 per acre, of which $10 acre cash and balance in monthly or quarterly payments running five years. All other lots $65 acre on same terms. While these prices are uniform, there is difference in desirability of lots and first customers get choice. Come and see plat and list men who have taken dozen lots before I could get the parcels staked off. For home or investment lots you lose opportunity if you fail to take this. On one lot is new 5-room house which is priced at $800 additional to cost of land at $65 acre.

HIGH QUALITY

TWO PRIME PRINCIPALS

Of HI-LO Baking Powder are quality and price. It is pure, and has wonderful leavening power and unvarying strength. One heaping teaspoonful perfectly leavens a quart of flour.

Superior to all in pastry and cake baking, yet equally good for biscuit, waffles, muffins, and griddle cakes.

Conforms with all pure food laws, State and National. Its honest price—a dime a pound—commends it as the "economy of the age." At your grocer's.

JEFF MAY FIGHT

ALL DEPENDS ON ATTITUDE OF MRS. JEFF.

She Does Not Wish Him to Re-enter Ring and He Acquiesces in All Things.

New York, Dec. 28.—In a telegram to W. W. Naughton III, Squiers, the Australian heavyweight champion, has accepted the offer of the Rhyolite promoters for a fight with champion Jeffries at the Nevada mining camp. Squiers only stipulates that his passage and that of his attendants be paid.

There will probably be no difficulty about that. Jeffries has wired that he will meet Squiers April 30 for a purse of $30,000, thus cutting $20,000 off of his original figures.

Another Story.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 28.—"My wife won't let me." These words of the popular song may keep Jim Jeffries from ever fighting again. Jeffries is afraid of only one thing being and that is his wife. Ever since his marriage Jeff has been a home-loving body, and in all things Mrs. Jeffries comes first with him. He will do nothing to displease her, and it was on her account mostly that he gave up the prize ring. She does not want him to return.

SUICIDES IN JAIL.

Guard Was Present When Bottle Was Passed.

Elmira, N. Y., Dec. 28.—Although a guard was standing close beside him last night, Frank Delaney, a railroad man, succeeded in a bold attempt to end his life and the life of a woman who occupied a cell in the woman's dormitory of the county jail. The woman was Bertha Wells, awaiting sentence for abducting a girl. The guard stood close by while the man and woman were conferring. Suddenly a bottle of carbolic acid suddenly Delaney drew from his pocket a bottle of carbolic acid and passed it through the bars. The woman seized it and swallowed the contents. Delaney pressed a second bottle to his own lips.

ENGLAND WITH US IF JAPAN ATTACKS

Would Dissolve Alliance At First Outbreak

Reason Why Big Ships Have Been Taken Out of Far Eastern Waters.

SECRET AGREEMENT BELIEVED.

New York, Dec. 28.—Ever since the battleship Ohio reached the Brooklyn navy yard a few days ago there has been much speculation as to the reason why the United States government has taken all its battleships away from the Philippine waters at this time, when there is so much gossip about the probability of trouble between this country and Japan.

The heaviest ships out there now are the armored cruisers West Virginia, Colorado, Maryland and Pennsylvania and it is admitted that one battleship could sink them all in half an hour.

The alleged reason was disclosed today by a member of the Ohio crew, who said:

"The reason we discovered there was simply this: That there is an understanding that at the first sign of hostilities between this country and Japan, Great Britain would dissolve the alliance with the island kingdom and assemble a fleet of twenty-five battleships in Japanese waters giving notice to Japan that at the first attack on Americans this fleet would get busy.

"It is the absolute confidence of the Washington authorities in this secret agreement with Great Britain that makes them so indifferent to the size and character of the American naval representation in the far east."

A naval yard officer, on the understanding that his name would not be published, commented to say:

"There is little doubt that every word the man from the Ohio says is true."

HOW "CABBY" WAS FOUND.

Young Vanderbilt Discovers Blue Ribbon Winner Pulling Hack.

New York, Dec. 28.—Alfred G. Vanderbilt has landed a solar plexus on that old fallacy that thoroughbreds are horn, not made.

Four months ago Mr. Vanderbilt was in Syracuse with his friend, Charles Wilson—the same Wilson who had been holding the reins on the Oakland farm's second entries. They had lunch at the Yates House and then bolted for a train.

At the door of the hotel they jumped into a cab calling to the driver to hurry to the station. The driver was willing, but the horse—the horse pranced about like aristocratic equines will before they get their stride. But when he did get started the horse made the dust fly.

"Well, isn't he a stepper?" exclaimed young Vanderbilt, as he looked out at the animal.

"For a cab horse, he is the bane ribbon wonder," said Wilson.

"He is simply great," said Vanderbilt. "Look at that conformation and stride. Say, this is a find. And I need a gray for my new four."

The train was forgotten. Vanderbilt and Wilson got out of the cab and interviewed the driver.

"Where did you get him?" they asked.

"Bought him, of course," said the driver. "Best horse in Syracuse, bar none."

"How much is he worth to you?" asked Mr. Vanderbilt.

"Oh, about $400," said the driver.

"I'll hitch him quick; here's your money." And so young Vanderbilt obtained "Cabby."

In the most later, big and spectacular event of recent horse show—an event which made the fashionable rise out of their chairs and really shout—the humble Syracuse cab horse was the star performer, and took a blue ribbon.

Rather dull was the river today enlivened only by the arrival of the Kentucky from the Tennessee river and the John A. Patton from Joppa. The Royal and George Cowling made regular trips. The river is falling rapidly, a fall of 1.6 for 24 hours being registered on the Broadway gauge with a stage at 27.4 feet. Business was indifferent.

The West Kentucky Coal company has leased the old wharfboat lying between Broadway and Jefferson streets for use as a coaling station. With the 125 feet of wharf leased recently from the city, this company will have practically a square of wharfage. This will enable the packers and towboats to coal at the city wharf without going up to the Ohio street docks in the Tennessee river, making an out of the way trip and using up valuable time. The old wharfboat will be used as a tool house and for other storage purposes. It has not been in use for many months from its decaying state but will suit the use for which the coal company intends it. The St. Bernard and Pittsburg Coal companies already have coal docks near the city wharf.

The Kentucky arrived this morning from the Tennessee river with the crew of the City of Saltillo taken on at Danville.

The John A. Patton returned from Joppa at 8 o'clock this morning and coming up the river made a fine appearance. The Patton will leave for Chattanooga today.

The Georgia Lee will pass down from Cincinnati for Memphis tomorrow afternoon or night.

The Carrie Lee, a handsome gasoline boat has been entered in the Paducah and Tolu, Ky., trade. She is owned by H. B. Harris, is fifty feet long and nine feet wide and can carry 50 to 75 passengers. Coming down yesterday a speed of ten miles in 35 minutes was made. The Carrie Lee will make the trip every other day.

Death has intervened in the famous bull case involving two packet lines and two wharfboat companies. The bull that was mutilated in shipment from Tolu, Ky., to Fulton, Tenn., has died at the latter point but the responsibility has not been acknowledged by any of the four parties to the transaction and the case probably will wear itself out.

A big combine tow of coal passed down yesterday from Pittsburg.

The wharf is lonesome without the Dick Fowler.

Official Forecasts.

The Ohio from Evansville to Cairo will fall rapidly during the next several days.

The Tennessee from Florence to the mouth will continue falling.

The Mississippi from below St. Louis to Cairo will continue falling. Heavy floating ice is reported at Cape Girardeau.

"CORPSE" SITS UP.

Two Monkeys May Die From Injuries Received in Panic.

C. J. Dickson, of Hallettsville, who had been ailing for some time, Tuesday was pronounced dead, says a Galveston telegram. At the wake the "corpse" came to life and sat up. The spectators rushed from the house. Paul Johnson, a farmer, leaped from a window and suffered internal injuries, which, it is feared, will prove fatal. Mrs. Jane Anderson, a cousin of Dickson, fainted and was crushed in a narrow hallway as the wakers fought to get out of the room. She may not recover. Dickson was quickly removed from the coffin and is still alive, with some chances for his ultimate recovery.

The premium will go into the reserve.

TWENTY SECONDS SEEMED ETERNITY

Lights Went Out During Race in Ring.

Guided Machine by Intuition With Horrible Death Present on Either Hand.

SENSATIONS OF THE MOMENT.

It was during a bicycle meet at night about five years ago on an eight lap board track in Western Washington. The band played a stirring air, while everyone waited expectantly for the big motor tandems to come on for the event of the evening. The two riders who were to compete for the honors appeared and a shout went up. One was the local star and the other a hero of many six-day races at Madison Square Garden.

In a moment everything became hushed as the two big pace-making machines, capable of a mile a minute, were silently rolled upon the track. The event was to be a twelve-mile motor-paced race and six riders engaged in it—two on each pace-maker and the stars following.

The machines were mounted and the race was on, the two stars falling in behind their respective machines after the first few laps. I was steering one of the pace-makers, and, as the pace increased, everything soon became a confused chain in the light of the 10 large arcs over the track.

We had soon gone over half the distance, for I heard the megaphone call "seven," then "eight," "nine," "ten," and as we came around for the eleventh mile the gang rang for the finish.

The rider following behind my machine then called for more speed, and I gripped the handle bars more closely as my partner on the rear turned on the "juice." The machine leaped forward and we passed our competitor.

We had hardly got by when suddenly and without the least warning all the lights went out and we were rushing almost 40 miles an hour through the dark on a narrow sixteen foot track of frail pine boards.

To go either into the center or over the top meant certain destruction. I groped blindly to distinguish the track but could not. My riding mate tried to reduce the speed, but could not find the levers. I heard the agonizing cry of the spectators. Suddenly the machine gave a lurch, and I awoke to the fact that we were rushing into one of the high banked turns at the end where there was no fence at the top. Gambling at the faint chance of staying with the track by mere feeling I called into play all my past experience in judging speed and banking to hold the turn.

I wondered how far it was to something to land on over the top and expected every instant to feel the increased vibrations of the motor and the sinking sensation of flying into space and sure eternity, for the track was built on the outskirts of the town in almost a forest of stumps and logs with jagged knots all over them. To leave the track going at such terrific speed meant a leap through the air of 90 or 100 feet at a death-dealing pace.

The horror of the situation was extreme, when the lights came on and suddenly as they had gone out and we found we were near the top of the track and passing the grand stand like an express train. The other machine had succeeded in slowing down and was opposite to us on the other side and almost stopped.

Realizing the race was off we stopped as soon as possible, but before we had fully slowed down the crowd rushed in upon the track, taking us bodily from the machines, hoisting us into the air slapping us on the back, and shaking us by the hand until we thought they were mad.

But they were only glad over our escape. We had ridden for almost an eighth of a mile in total darkness and experienced a brief 20 seconds that seemed like eternity.—Chicago Tribune.

Daily Thought.

"Happiness does not come in with the gifts that are bestowed upon us;
it comes in when we open the door and let ourselves out to others."

SCIENCE AND MORALS.

This is a practical age. Once geographical explorations distinguished an era of world development. Philosophy and science have heretofore always been abstract studies, their devoted holding aloof from the world of affairs, or only interested in the solution of some mechanical problem, such as means of transportation.
That science should ever be called to the aid of humanitarians, should ever be used to advance the cause of morality, should ever be applied to the direct uplifting of society, no one dreamed; much less those who once condemned the delver into accient lore as blasphemers.

This age has extracted all that is best from history and philosophy. We have combined the Spartan theory of racial development with the tenderest solicitude for the individual. Instead of killing the weaklings in their infancy, we are invoking science to make them strong. State hospitals for consumptives and crippled children, are being built. Our schools are being equipped with gymnasiums and a professor of physical culture becomes a member of the faculty. Charitable and humane societies teach children the principles of kindness, and with a sturdy race of highly-trained men and women, efficient intellectually and physically, we will some day, perhaps, produce human creatures morally equipped as none before them have been.

It is to the children public attention is turned, for the adults are past mending. National and state child labor laws promise to keep the children out of factories and in the schools and open air, until they are properly developed.

But the most important step in this direction is the institution of the juvenile court, and here as no where else we see science lending its efforts to correct moral degeneracy.
There is the work for the practical humanitarian and the pathologist side by side in this court. Stunted children, reared in an atmosphere as morally corrupt as it is unsanitary, have been found starved until their brain development is hindered and their sense of right and wrong impaired or wholly lacking. Sometimes imperfect breathing space in their nostrils or brain pressure produces this phase of degeneracy, rendering the little subjects prey to evil suggestion.

For example, ear-
rings, it is hereditarily for a

ence also plays its part in the work of juvenile reform.

Rockefeller's critics have raised a crowd of defenders who are extreme in their encomiums as the others were in their condemnation. Both do the Standard Oil king injustice, the former in defining Rockefeller's motives and the latter in defending the criminalities of the trust. It is a common error to ascribe to Rockefeller a mere craze for money. Acquaintance with men dominated by this sole desire for money, leads to the observation that no such man ever could have built up such a monster as the Standard Oil company, for "tight fisted" fellows do not risk enough, are not broad-minded enough nor far-sighted enough to grasp the opportunity of which Rockefeller took advantage. Any man with the brain capacity of John D.
Rockefeller recognizes the futility, the emptiness, of mere money getting. Rockefeller is a commercial genius. He represents the ultimate possibilities of American business methods under a regime that, we believe, is passing. This is no mitigation of the evils of Standard Oil; but Rockefeller's fortune was accumulated in the legitimate province of trade, and by compulsion with J.
Pierpont Morgan and the Wall Street
"financiers", he is the saint his words would indicate.

Broadway at night, the "Great White Way", is being produced in miniature scale on Paducah's Broadway, and in a way that reflects no discredit on the progressiveness of the city's merchants. Broadway is becoming a most attractive place at night. From Fifth street to the river electric signs wink and blink and burn the names of merchants into the consciousness of all beholders. With the letters of fire and the brilliantly lighted windows the street contrasts with the darker ways about town, where only a few lights burn at intervals. Several other signs will be placed in position within a week or ten days. The transformation of Broadway at night during 1906 has been wonderful.

Isn't it too provoking? When he had intended to compliment the political acumen of Mayor D. A. Yet-ser in fashion as subtle as his own, some one else must needs "butt in"
and claim the mention.

"We are advertised by our loving friends."

RIGHT WORK OR IMMIGRATION
Mr. G. Gunby Jordan of Columbus, Ga., vice-president of the recently organized Georgia Immigration association, writes to the Manufacturing Record as follows:

The Georgia Immigration association has no connection whatever with any other immigration commission or society or association. The Georgia immigration association is moving a little slowly, simply to be certain that no mistakes will be made, and especially that no violator of the labor laws shall be incurred by it. To that end it has a delegation in Washington at present, and when this association starts its operations it hopes to carry them on without friction or any trouble, real or apparent.

The program thus sketched of the Georgia Immigration association is a promise of eminently practical results. In the absence of a much-to-be-desired immigration bureau of the state government, this voluntary association of business men identified with the progress and prosperity of Georgia must become the center of immigration activities there. It is wise in maintaining independence in its operations and in thus avoiding the embarrassments of participation in impractical dreams of securing cooperation of all the southern states in immigration work or becoming victims of unwarranted attempts of fakers to strengthen their schemes by creating the impression that they are operating as agents of the official south or of organizations within the south. The way for southern states in immigration work is for each state to act for itself through properly-constituted authorities, as Maryland, Virginia, South Carolina, Mississippi and Louisiana are doing, or through businesslike organizations or railroad agencies, such as those enjoyed by Georgia, Alabama and Texas, upon the principle that to get immigrants one must go after immigrants.—Manufacturers' Record.

Stacker Lee Still Aground.
Memphis, Dec. 28.—A rise in the Mississippi river is looked forward to with much interest to the owners of the steamer Stacker Lee, the Memphis-St. Louis packet which went aground at Horse Tail crossing, 15 miles below St. Louis, Sunday morning. It has been estimated by the officials of the company that it will require a rise of 6.5 feet at St. Louis to release the boat from its position on the bar.

COTTON EXCHANGE GUILTY OF FRAUD

In Light of Post Office Rulings Say Growers

Wish New York Board Debarred
From Using Mails in Its Dealings in Futures.

LOSE MONEY BY OPERATIONS

Washington, Dec. 28.— Unless there comes a great change over the spirit of their dreams of aggressiveness for self protection, the cotton growers of the south are about to put up to the post office department a demand for the most sensational fraud order in its history against the New York Cotton Exchange.

The first count against the New York Cotton Exchange is that it conducts an illegitimate business. The cotton growers say they are not fighting dening in futures per se, as New Orleans handles the staple in a perfectly legitimate and altogether different fashion. If the post office department is consistent, the promoters of this movement say an order forbidding metropolitan concerns from using the mails in the transmission of contracts will certainly result.

The principal complaint is that cotton delivered on contracts made on the floor of the exchange is not of middling grade or its equivalent, but a "rotten commodity," which cannot be spun and which is only fit for making horse collars, mattresses, etc., on which the buyer, if he does not dispose of his contract before notice day, must in some cases lose more than $10 a bale regardless of price fluctuations.

Representative Livingston of Georgia, who has been a leader in behalf of the southern cotton growers in congress, said today that the southern planters lost $31,000,000 as the result of the practice of the New York exchange.

pistol shot. It is believed, however, that he took his own life, but the reason for his action has not transpired. Later it was ascertained that Col. De Gelmann committed suicide.
Fearing that the pistol shot would not be fatal he stabbed himself in the region of the heart. The colonel had been depressed for some time owing to private affairs and during the night a telegram arrived announcing the settlement of a certain matter. The message, however, was too late.

"Not a truth to art or science has been given,
But brows have ached for it, and souls toiled and striven.
And many have striven, and many have failed,
And many died, slain by the truth
they assailed."

The Osteopathic science has been assailed as vigorously as ever any new truth that has been offered the world, but, today it is rapidly coming into its own, as the people become better acquainted with it—know it.
Osteopathy is an evolution of the science of treating disease. It went back to the first principles in nature for its foundation, and by taking a step backward it has made a great stride forward.

It is merely a common sense treatment; a method of manipulation to restore the normal conditions of nerve control and blood supply to every organ of the body by removing the physical obstruction, or stimulating, or preventing functional activities, as the condition may require.

The success I have had in Paducah in treating rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness, malaria conditions, such as the tired-out, run-down feeling, sick, heavy headaches, and stomach disorders are but a repetition of the successes of the science everywhere.

Come to see me at any time, and let me tell you of Paducah people you know well who will vouch to benefits received from the treatment.
That's the best recommendation I can give you.

IN THE COURTS

Circuit Court.

Business picked up in circuit court this morning after a full of several days, and several suits were filed.

John K. Hendrick filed suit against Noah and A. B. Morris for $50 on a note.

Charles Smith, who was fined $30 and costs this morning and given ten days in jail for carrying concealed a deadly weapon, appealed to the circuit court from the police court.

Mary Elizabeth Ingram et al., filed a petition in partition against Linda Ingram, et al. They are heirs of C.
F. Ingram who died December 22, 1900.

James A. Herring, a land agent residing in the county, filed suit against Mary E. Allison for $300, his commission on a land sale. He claims that she employed him to sell a farm in the county for $10,000, and if this amount was secured his commission was to be $300. The petition further alleges that she sold the farm to some other for less money after he had secured a purchaser.

Two suits were filed as a result of an alleged breach of contract in which Herring figured again. One is James A. Herring against Killian Seltz estate for $100. He alleges Seltz employed him to sell land in the county for $1,700, which he did to William F. Henson, but the defendant failed to make the deed. He sues for his $100 commission.

The second is William F. Henson against Killian Seltz for $75 damages to him in loss of time in negotiating for the purchase of the property through Herring.

Malinda Huggett filed suit today against W. W. English to secure $250 the value of notes alleged to be illegally held from her by English.

Thomas Hodges filed suit against
G. R. Allen & company, of Mayfield, for $1,500, alleged to be the value of 14 hogheads of tobacco sold by the defendant for the plaintiff and which money was never delivered to Hodge.

Edward Downing Sues.

Edward Downing filed suit against Kate Downing yesterday in circuit court alleging immorality. Several weeks ago Charles Bean left his home in the Clark's river section, as did Mrs. Downing. A short time after Mrs. Bean filed suit for divorce against Charles Bean, alleging that he was living with another "woman" in Cairo, but not mentioning names. Yesterday the Downing suit was filed, alleging that the "woman" in the case is Mrs. Downing. An attachment was issued to prevent the defendant making away with property. All are prominent residents of the county.

In Quarterly Court.

Lucien and Monroe Durrett filed suit yesterday in quarterly court against S. A. Torrence, W. A. Berry and J. T. Reddick for $87.89. The petition states that the plaintiffs got a judgment for the above amount against Torrence for goods furnished him, but when the levy was made Torrence had mortgaged his property to Attorney W. A. Berry and Dr.
J. T. Reddick.

U. S. Thomas filed suit in quarterly court yesterday against J. H.
Upshaw and W. T. Cooper for $75.33.

The Estey company filed suit against William Lydon for $104.79, alleged to be due on a piano.

Magistrate's Court.

A corn mill, located at 1201 Salem avenue, was attached today in a suit brought in Magistrate Charles W.
Emery's court. The style of the suit is Walter Mathews against W. T. and Alice Moore on a debt of $31.
The foreclosure of a mortgage is asked for. The case has been set for trial January 21.

This afternoon Magistrate Emery is trying the attachment suit of the Jake Blodermann Grocery company against Robert Emery for a debt of $38.

In Bankruptcy.

Objections to a discharge in bankruptcy in the Moses Schwab case have been withdrawn by creditors, and Schwab will be granted his discharge.

An order was made in Judge Bag-by's court this morning for a sale of the accounts in the bankruptcy case of Moses Schwab. Schwab listed them at $400.

Marriage Licenses.

Notice.

The finance committee of the general council will meet in the council chamber Friday afternoon, December 28, at 2 o'clock. All having bills against city are urgently requested to send them to the auditor Friday morning so they may be prepared for allowance and payment this year.

POWER TO SETTLE STATE DISPUTES

Resides in Federal Government Says Brief

Attitude of Administration Not Immune to State Rights in Reality.

KANSAS VERSES COLORADO

Washington, Dec. 28.—A brief was filed in the supreme court this morning defending Secretary Root from the charge that he favored centralized government to the prejudice of state rights. The document presents the government's side of the case of Kansas vs. Colorado, upholding the federal control of certain streams. It maintains that in a conflict between states only the federal government is competent to settle.

Washington, Dec. 28.— While we are discussing the increase of salaries of government employees, says Wm.
E. Curtis, we should not forget the officers of the army and navy, whose pay is altogether too small, and has not been advanced for half a century, although the expense of living has doubled during that time. Since the Spanish war both branches of the service have had their expenses increased by the more frequent transfers from post to post, and to and from Cuba and the Philippines, for which no allowance is made, and the new law which prohibits railway companies from granting passes hits the officers of the army very hard.

When a regiment is transferred from one post to another the officers and the few married soldiers who are found in every regiment are, of course, accompanied by their families, and hitherto free transportation has always been generously furnished by the railways which have obtained the contract to transport the troops. When the quartermaster has been making arrangements for this transportation the representative of the railway has invariably asked for the names of the wives and children and even the servants of officers' families and has issued passes to every one of them. It has been customary, too, for the railroads to make no charge for the transportation of extra personal baggage and household effects. But under the law that cannot be done any longer.
An officer who is transferred from Fortress Monroe or Atlanta or Fort Ethel Allen, Va., to San Francisco or Fort Reno or any other western post, or who is sent to the Philippines, or to Cuba, is compelled to pay full fare for every member of his family and such servants as he takes with him, and the regular rates of freight for all of his extra baggage.

To a man with a wife and three or four children this is a very heavy charge and exhausts two or three months' pay. In addition to this there is always considerable expense in making removals that cannot be avoided—the cost of packing and unpacking, of adjusting old furniture and carpets into new houses, of making repairs and supplying omissions that are unforeseen.

May Confiscate Railroad.

Washington, Dec. 28.—Full responsibility for the coal famine in Idaho is placed upon the Oregon Short line by Governor Gooding, in a letter to Franklin K. Lane of the interstate commerce commission received today. Drastic measures for the relief of the public's distress are threatened by the Idaho executive, who denounces the railway company as a corporation which cares only for dividends. The nature of the step contemplated by Governor Gooding is not known here, but it is assumed that he thought of seizing the railroads and operating them in behalf of the suffering people.

One of the certainties of life is the uncertainty of love.

People and Pleasant Events

Calro Cotillon Club.

The Cotillon club eclipsed all its former social efforts in the holiday ball given last night at K. M. K. C. hall, which was a brilliant social event unequal to any ever given here, considered from the standpoint of beautiful girls in lovely evening gowns and handsome young men. The affair was promoted by Messrs. Jesse Brass and Will Howe, two popular young society men, and the credit for its great success is due to their efforts. An orchestra from Paducah played exceptionally fine music and the holiday spirit pervaded, the ball being inspirational to a festive mood.

Among the guests from out-of-town were: Misses Faith Langstaff, of Paducah, Ky.; Kinney, of New York; Hal Richmond, of Clinton, Ky.; Messrs. Douglas Bagby and Will Rudy, of Paducah, Ky.—Calro Bulletin.

Wahl-Kennery.

The marriage of Miss Ada Selena Wahl of Sharpe, Ky., to Mr. Joseph F. Kennery of Mansfield, La., took place yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the bride's home "Oakwood," five miles beyond Sharpe. The Rev. W. E. Cave, D. D., of the First Presbyterian church, Paducah, performed the ceremony.

It was quite a beautiful and elaborate home wedding. The house was effectively decorated with Christmas greens. The bride wore a handsome gown of white satin and had a number of attendants. She is an attractive and popular young lady of Marshall county and is related to the Messrs. Frank and Albert Wahl and the Nagel family of Paducah and has often visited here. The groom is connected with a military school at Mansfield.

The couple were in Paducah last evening en route to their home in Louisiana.

Pretty Card Party.

Miss Lucille Weil's card party yesterday afternoon at the Standard club rooms was an especially charming affair and included 42 guests of the younger set. The parlors were beautifully decorated in the Christmas colors, red and green, with holly and the red Christmas bells and red shaded electric lights. The ladies were Christmas cards of holly tied with red ribbons. An attractive three course luncheon prettily emphasizing the red and green motif was served at 4:30 o'clock. Music played during the afternoon.

The euchre prizes were won by Miss Marjorie Loving and Miss Elsie Hodge.

Special games for those not playing cards were arranged and Miss Mary Gregory captured the prize.

RESIST EFFORTS TO COLLECT TAX

Will Not Pay Bonds For Railroad Never Built

Woman Lives, Although Bullet Severed Her Spinal Cord, Which Is Sewed Up.

SHOT FOR NOT GOING TO BED.

Olive Hill Ky., Dec. 28.—Heavily armed and marching with the precision of trained troops a mob of 1,000 men took possession of Olive Hill Monday morning, and by force of the weapons they carried forced the collector of taxes to surrender a stock of merchandise on which he had levied for taxes. Determined to prevent the collection of either principal or interest on railroad bonds issued sixty years ago, for the construction of a railroad which was never built, the men of Carter and Elliott counties have resorted to arms and have formed themselves into a sort of Ku Klux Klan, the members of which are pledged to stand together, and, if necessary, fight for what they believe to be their rights.

Spinal Cord Severed.
Lexington, Ky., Dec. 28.—Although her spinal cord was cut in two by the bullet which Charles Stewart fired into her back Monday night, Miss Susie Nelson is still alive, with her body paralyzed below the wound. The bullet was located this evening by Prof. Pence, of the State college, with an X-ray machine. It was found embedded in the backbone and had completely severed the spinal cord. The bullet was removed by the surgeons at the Good Samaritan hospital and the spinal cord was stitched together.

Stewart, who shot Miss Nelson and another boarder at the house of his sister Monday night, because they did not obey his orders to go to bed and cease talking, has not yet been caught.

Western Kentucky Situation.
Louisville, Dec. 28.—Chairman McChord, of the Kentucky railroad commission, will again take up the matter of the car shortage, especially as applied to the western part of the state. It is Mr. McChord's idea to discuss the matter with both the ship pers and railroad men. Mr. McChord has not yet decided what date he will hold the conference.

EATS 11 BANANAS FOR LUNCH.

Man With Stomach of Wondrous Capacity Swallows 'Em.

Libertyville, Ill., Dec. 28.—Horace H. Tower, of Millburn, Ill., is a young man of ambitions and withal has a robust constitution and an aggressive appetite. For some time he has shown highly specialized gastro-nomic abilities, his bent turning to banana eating. A day or so ago he ate ten bananas without winking, and then to show what he could do when in the mood ate thirty on a wager in fourteen minutes. He had fifteen minutes to do it, but one minute went to waste. He then rested over night and after a refreshing breakfast dieted himself by placing one by one beneath his vest long and luscious bananas to the number of forty-one. His friends who witnessed the taking on of the cargo declared him champion of the world and with back him against all comers. He was given a belt, as it was thought that was just what he needed.

ROPE

Parted Just as Wife Hauled Husband and Boy From Ice.

Morristown, N. J., Dec. 28.—Before the eyes of his young wife, George Davis, aged 25, today lost his life in an unsuccessful attempt to rescue John A. Arke, aged 8, from drowning. Davis and his wife saw Arke break through the ice and drop into the water. Lying down with rope about him, Davis seized Arke. His wife hauled on the rope and drew her husband back from the hole until the boy was out of the water. As she pulled again the rope broke and the man and boy slid back into the water and were drowned.

WHALERS KIDNAP GIRLS OF ALASKA

Are Caught By Revenue Cutter And Held

Crime Is Unprecedented in History of America and Jurisdiction In Dispute.

PORT ALASKA IN MOURNING

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—Reminiscent of the days when the Sabine women were carried off is the story told here today of a looting and woman-stealing raid of American whalers in faraway Alaska. The story reached the department of justice by way of Seattle.

According to the report, several masters of American whaling vessels in Arctic waters captured a lot of the prettiest Alaskan girls they could find at a settlement known as Port Alaska and put to sea.

The shrieks of the mothers and sisters on shore were in vain. The matter was reported officially to the United States authorities in Alaska. The revenue cutter McCullough was sent in pursuit and succeeding in overhauling the whalers and rescuing the captives.

One Charged With Murder.

The girls were put ashore at the point from which they had been stolen and the question at once arose whether the Alaskan court had jurisdiction. Telegrams were sent to the department of justice and it was eventually decided that the whalers should be taken to Seattle. There the point was made that the whalers should be tried at the "first jurisdiction" at which they touched.

Judge Hanford at Seattle declared that he could hold the prisoners, as Seattle was the first "legal jurisdiction" and he was sustained by the department of justice. The trial will go on there. The principal defendant in the case is E. W. Newth, captain of one of the whaling vessels. Another master, named Boldfish, is charged with murder.

Crime Unprecedented.

The prosecution will be vigorous as the Alaskans are still wards of the nation and the crime is unprecedented in the United States. The affair has aroused officials of the department of justice and instructions are being prepared for the trial.

The revenue cutter had a long chase and in the running fight one of the pursuers was killed and around this swings the charge of murder.

THE REFUGEES

By A. CONAN DOYLE,
Author of "The Return of Sherlock Holmes"

COPYRIGHT, 1903, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

Mme. de Montepan had retired to rest, easy in her mind, after receiving the message from her brother. She knew Louis as few others knew him, and she was well aware of that obduracy in trifles which was one of his characteristics. If he had said that he would be married by the archbishop, then the archbishop it must be. Tonight at least there should be no marriage.

She dressed herself with care in the morning. No news had come to her of the great event of the previous night, although the court already rang with it, for her haughtiness and her bitter tongue had left her without a friend or intimate. She rose, therefore, in the best of spirits.

She was still in her boudoir putting the last touches to her toilet when her page announced to her that the king was waiting in her salon. Mme. de Montepan could hardly believe in such good fortune. She had reckoned her brain all morning as to how she should win her way to him, and here he was waiting for her.

He had come with every intention of beginning the interview by telling her bluntly of his marriage, but now, as he looked upon her beauty and her love, he felt that it would have been less brutal to strike her down at his feet. Let some one else tell her, then. She would know soon enough. All this ran swiftly through his mind, and she as swiftly read it off in his brown eyes.

"You have something you came to say, and now you have not the heart to say it. God bless the kindly heart which checks the cruel tongue!"

"No, no, madame," said Louis. "I would not be cruel. I cannot forget that my life has been brightened and my court made brilliant during all these years by your wit and your beauty. But times change, madame, and for every reason I think that it is best that we should arrange in the way which we discussed the other day and that you should withdraw yourself from the court."

"Withdraw, sire? For how long?"

"It must be a permanent withdrawal, madame. I need not say that I shall make your retirement a happy one as far as I am able. Your allowance shall be fixed by yourself. A palace shall be erected for you in whatever part of France you may prefer, and I that it is twenty miles from an estate also."

"Oh, sire, how can you think that such things as these would compensate me for the loss of your love?" Her heart had turned to lead within her breast. And he spoke so calmly and so gently and yet she heard him as if he were a demon.

"Madame," said he, "I have thought well over this matter, and it must be as I say. There is no other way at all. I have ordered your brother to have his carriage at the postern at five o'clock, for I thought that perhaps you would wish to retire after midnight."

"To hide my shame from a laughing court? It was thoughtful of you, sire. And yet perhaps this, too, was a pity, since we hear so much of dukes now-a-days, for who was it but you?"

"I know, madame. I know. I confess it. I have wronged you deeply. Believe me that every attachment which is in my power shall be made. Nay, do not look so indignantly at me, I beg. Let our last sight of each other be one which may leave a pleasant memory behind it."

"A pleasant memory?" All the gentleness and humility had fallen from her now, and her voice had the hard ring of contempt and of anger. "A pleasant memory! It may well be pleasant to you, who are released from the woman whom you ruined, who can turn now to another without any pangs to be seen within the salons of your court to remind you of your perfidy. But to me, living in some lonely country house, spurned by my husband, despised by my family, the scorn and jest of France, far from all which gave a charm to life, far from the man for whose love I have sacrificed everything—this will be a very pleasant memory to me, you may be sure."

The king's eyes had caught the misty gleam which shot from hers, and yet he strove hard to set a curb upon his temper. He felt that it was for him to do so, and yet it did not come kindly to his imperious nature.

"There is nothing to be gained, madame," said he, "by using words which are neither seemly for your tongue nor for my ears. You will do me the justice to confess that where I might command I am now entreating."

"Oh, you show too much consideration, sire! Our relations of twenty years or so can scarce suffice to explain such forbearance from you."

"Your words are bitter, madame. Francoise, be reasonable, I implore you. We have both left our youth behind."

"The allusion to my years comes gracefully from your lips."

"And you distort my words. Then I shall say no more. You may not see no gnat, madame. Is there no question which you would wish to ask me before I go?"

"Good God," she cried, "is this a man? Has it a heart? Are these the lips which have told me so often that he loved me? Are these the eyes which have looked so fondly into mine? Can you then thrust away a woman whose life has been yours as you put away the St. Germain palace when a more showy one was ready for you? And this is the end of all those vows, those sweet whispers, those promises, those promises—this!"

"Nay, madame, this is painful to both of us."

"Pain! Where is the pain in your face? I see anger in it because I have dared to speak truth. I see joy in it because you feel that your vile task is done."

"My patience can bear no more!" cried the king furiously. "I leave you, madame, and forever!"

But her fury had swept all fear and hesitation from her mind. She stepped between the door and him, her face flushed, her eyes blazing, her face thrust a little forward, one small white satin slipper tapping upon the carpet.

"You are in haste, sire? She is waiting for you doubtless. But it was a disappointment last night, was it not, my poor sire? Ah, and for the government, what a blow! Great heaven, what a blow! No archbishop, no marriage, all the pretty plan gone wrong! Was it not cruel?"

Louis gazed at the beautiful, furious face in bewilderment, and it flashed across his mind that perhaps her grief had turned her brain. What else could be the meaning of this wild talk of the archbishop and the disappointment? It could be nothing of the kind, he thought. She was a woman who was so afflicted. He must soothe her, and, above all, he must get away from her.

"You have led the keeping of a good many of my family jewels," said he. "I beg that you will still retain them as a small sign of my regard."

He had hoped to please her and to calm her, but he had instead she was over her treasure cupboard handling double handfuls of precious stones down in his feet. They clicked and rattled, the little pellets of red and yellow and green, rolling, glinting over the floor and rattling up against the silk carpets at the base of the walls.

"They will do for the government if the archbishop comes at last!" she cried.

He was more convinced than ever but she had lost her wits. A thought struck him by which he might appeal to that which was softer and more gentle in her nature. He stepped swiftly to the door, pushed it half open and gave a whispered order. A youth with long golden hair waiting down over his black velvet doublet entered the room. "It was for your youngest son, the Count of Toulouse."

"I thought that you would wish to bid him farewell," said Louis.

She stood staring as though unable to realize the significance of his words. Then it was borne suddenly in upon her that her children as well as her lover were to be taken from her, that this other woman should see them and speak with them and win their love while she was far away. All that was evil and bitter in the woman flashed suddenly in her mind for the instant she was what the king had thought her. If her son was not for her then he should be for none. A jeweled knife lay among her treasures ready to her hand. She caught it up and rushed at the cowering lad.

Louis screamed and ran forward to stop her, but another had been swifter than he. A woman had darted through the open door and had caught the upraised wrist. There was a moment's struggle, two quickly turned away and strained, and the knife dropped between their feet. The frightened Louis caught it up, and, seizing his little son by the wrist, he rushed from the apartment. Francoise de Montepan staggered back against the ottoman to find herself confronted by the steady eyes and set face of that other Francoise, the woman whose presence fell like a shadow at every turn of her life.

"I have saved you, madame, from doing that which you would have been the first to bewail."

"Saved me! It is you who have driven me to this—you, whom I picked up when you were hard pressed for a crust of bread or a cup of sour wine. What had you? You had nothing—nothing except a name which was a laughingstock. And what did I give you? I gave you everything. You know that I gave you everything—money, position, the entrance to the court. You had them all from me. And now you mock me!"

"Madame, I do not mock you. I pity you from the bottom of my heart."

"Pity? Ha, ha! A Mortmain is pitted by the widow Scarron! Your pity may go where your gratitude is, and where your character is. We shall be troubled with it no longer then."

"Your words do not pain me. I have never had an evil thought toward you."

"None toward me? Oh, woman, woman!"

"What have I done, then? The king came to my room to see the children taught. He stayed. He talked. He asked my opinion on this and that. Could I be silent, or could I say other than what I thought?"

"And so, by your own confession, you stole the king's love from me, most virtuous of widows!"

"I had all gratitude and kindly thought for you. You have, as you have so often reminded me, been my benefactress. It was not necessary for you to say it, for I had never for an instant forgotten it."

BREWERY AGENTS LICENSE REDUCED

Out of Town Concerns Come In On Equal Footing

Board of Aldermen Hold Two Sessions In One Night and Pass Ordinance.

DRUGGISTS WIN THEIR POINT

The board of aldermen met in adjourned session last evening and reduced the license of brewery agents from $250 to $150 and druggists' liquor license from $150 to $25.

Mayor Yelzer presented a petition which was handed him in the afternoon. It was from agents for breweries protesting against the charging of $250 per annum for doing business in Paducah. The petition stated that each signer of the petition is a resident of Paducah and that to raise agents for out of town breweries from $50 to $250 while the license of the Paducah Brewing association is fixed at $150 is unfair, and partial; in fact a discrimination against out of town corporations.

Alderman Chambliss stated that the purpose of the committee in fixing the license so was to protect home industries.

Attorney Hal S. Corbett, representing signers of the petition, declared that the measure under consideration would be a bad commercial policy. Attorney Corbett stated that home industry protection was all right, but it did not appear fair and equitable to say one man or corporation may do a same business for $150 per annum while others are required to pay $250. He cited a clause in the constitution which stated all taxation must be uniform.

Solicitor James Campbell stated that he could speak only as to the legality of the proposed license tax, and that he felt sure the court of appeals intended to give city council the power to levy taxes in a reasonable uniformity; and that the section of the constitution cited by Attorney Corbett related specifically to ad valorem and not license taxes.

Alderman Miller thought there should be some uniformity.

Alderman Hank thought that the local brewery should be taxed the same as agents for out of town breweries, and would not advocate passing the ordinance with such provisions.

The clause pertaining to "brewery agents" was eliminated, and in that clause where "breweries" are taxed, the words "brewery agents" were inserted making the license tax of "breweries" and "brewery agents" the same, $150. The vote was unanimous.

Ordinance Taken Up.

City Solicitor James Campbell read the ordinance. The only changes made from the original ordinance referred to brewery agents and druggists selling liquor. Such druggists are charged $25 per annum, the original tax set out being $150.

The ordinance was given first passage. No other changes were made. On motion the board adjourned.

Mayor Yelzer read a call for a second meeting, and the aldermen did not leave their seats in the time intervening from adjournment to the second meeting.

A motion that the rule be suspended and the ordinance given second passage was made.

Solicitor Campbell decided that it would require two-thirds of the members elect to suspend the rule, and as Aldermen Bell and Palmer were absent, this could not be done. The solicitor was instructed to read the ordinance and it was given second passage.

On motion the board adjourned.

OPIUM CAMPAIGN STARTED IN CHINA

Empress Dowager Would Put Stop to Habit.

Embargo on Importation and Registration of Victims of Drug Are Adopted.

HAS STRONG HOLD ON NATION.

Washington, Dec. 28.—Among the many important reforms that have been undertaken by the imperial government of China is the suppression of the opium traffic, and it is a good deal of a task, if the government of the United States should attempt to suppress the liquor habit it would be no more difficult, for, as ex-Secretary Foster said in his recent lecture before the National Geographic Society, nearly every family in China "has felt the clutch of this monster vice and it is known to have impoverished whole communities." It is, however, denied that the drug is largely used by the official class. A prominent mandarin of Peking, speaking from intimate knowledge of the matter, has stated that a very small percentage of high officials in Peking smoke opium, and that of all the viceroys and governors only one is addicted to the habit.

This fact, Mr. Foster says, gives greater hope for the enforcement of the edict of the empress dowager, issued on the 20th of last September, for the gradual suppression of the cultivation of the poppy and the use of opium in ten years. Farmers are forbidden to plant new ground to poppies and the area now used for that purpose must be diminished 10 per cent each year, and cease entirely at the end of the tenth year.

Most Register.

All persons—it is estimated that they number 100,000,000—who use opium are required to register their names with the police and obtain permits which will allow them to purchase a given quantity of the drug at certain periods, which will be noted in the permit, and all dealers are forbidden to give or sell the drug to any one in greater quantity or at more frequent periods than are allowed in the permit. All persons over 60 years of age may continue their use as at present, but all persons under that age will be required to reduce their consumption by 20 per cent yearly and cease to use it entirely at the end of five years. The permits are to be renewed annually, and the allowance indicated upon them will be reduced 20 per cent, in time and in quantity. These permits are sold for fees which increase in the inverse ratio of age. A person of 60 years old pays the minimum fee, a person of 40 pays twice as much as one of 50, and so on, which makes the fee for young men almost prohibitive.

At the end of the five years persons under 65 years of age who continue to use opium will be compelled to wear a distinctive badge which will advertise them publicly as opium fiends.

All government officials, even princes, dukes, viceroys, and generals less than 60 years of age must give up the habit within six months or tender their resignations. All teachers and students must abandon the habit within one year. All officers of the army and navy must abandon the habit at once, and a telegram to the newspapers recently published states that several officers of the old Manch Banner Corps, the Imperial Guard, who protect the person of the emperor and empress dowager, have already been court-martialed and cashiered for failure to obey this edict.

The Dealers.

Dealers in opium are required to take out licenses and to report all purchases and sales to the police. Their purchases of stock must decrease annually at the rate of 20 per cent, and at the end of five years must cease altogether. The number of licenses issued will decrease in the same proportion, so that the opium shops will be abolished gradually. The sale of pipes, lamps and other smoking appliances must cease within the year. All places of public resort for opium smoking are to be closed and those who are addicted to the habit must practice it at their own homes.

Violations of this law are to be punished by the imprisonment of the offenders and by the confiscation of all their property.

The importation of morphine and other medicinal forms of opium and hypodermic syringes is permitted under most stringent regulations and the sale limited to practicing physicians. The government will establish dispensaries at which medicines to counteract the craving for opium will be furnished to the public free of cost.

The government sacrifices a revenue of about $22,000,000 a year in the suppression of the vice.

DIED SUDDENLY OF HEART DISEASE.

How frequently does a head line similar to the above greet us in the newspapers. The rush, push and strenuousness of the American people has a strong tendency to lead up to valvular and other affections of the heart, attended by irregular action, palpitation, dizziness, smothered sensations and other distressing symptoms.

One of the prominent ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made are recommended by some of the leading writers on Materia Medica for the cure of just such cases. Golden Seal root, for instance, is said by the UNITED STATES DISPENSARY, a standard authority, "to impart tone and increased power to the heart's action." Numerous other leading authorities represent Golden Seal as an unsurpassed tonic for the muscular system in general, and as the heart is almost wholly composed of muscular tissue, it naturally follows that it must be greatly strengthened by this superb general tonic. But probably the most important ingredient of "Golden Medical Discovery," so far as its marvelous cures of valvular and other affections of the heart are concerned, is Stone root, or Colinus Can., Prof. Wm. C. Caine, author of Paine's Epitome of Medicine, says of it:

"I not long since had a patient who was so much oppressed with valvular disease of the heart that his friends were obliged to carry him up stairs. He, however, gradually recovered under the influence of Colinus Can. (medicinal principle extracted from Stone root) and is now attending to his business. Heretofore physicians knew of no remedy for the removal of so distressing and so dangerous a malady. While them it was all guess-work, and it fearfully warned the afflicted that death was near at hand. Colinus Can. unquestionably affords relief in such cases, and in most instances effects a cure."

Stone root is also recommended by Drs. Hale and Ellingwood, of Chicago, for valvular and other diseases of the heart. The latter says: "It is a heart tonic of direct and permanent influence."

"Golden Medical Discovery," not only cures serious heart affections, but is a most efficient general tonic and invigorator, strengthening the stomach, invigorating the liver, regulating the bowels and curing catarrhal affections in all parts of the system.

RESERVE

WAS EXCEPTED UNDER FULL AUTHORITY OF DEPARTMENT.

Defense of Secretary of Interior Will Be Made in Report of the Chief.

Washington, Dec. 28.—Clifford Pinchot, chief of the forest reserve, today approved a rough draft of a report to be submitted to the secretary of agriculture relating to the 4,000,000 acres of land in the Indian territory whose withdrawal for forest reserve purposes brought about both an investigation and criticism of the secretary of the interior and agriculture by a senate committee.

The report shows that the proposed forestry reserve was asked for primarily by the Indians themselves and other local people; that the maintenance of a forest reserve on the proposed area will furnish a much needed continuous supply of timber and wood for local use, and also prevent disastrous floods along the thousand miles of the Red river, running through Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana, where immense sums of money are now being expended for levees by local people, and the government; a forest reserve would not take up all the residue of land after allotments to the Indians.

The report will further insist that the secretary of interior's action in temporarily suspending allotments was not only within his right, but he would have been remiss had he done otherwise. A recommendation will be made to the secretary of agriculture, who will undoubtedly transmit the same to the interior, that, as originally withdrawn, the 4,000,000 acres a year can be properly reduced to half the size by leaving out the part in the Cherokee nation and all the lands within twenty miles of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway in the Choctaw nation.

This report, it is expected, the secretary of the interior will make public as soon as it reaches him.

"BELLAMY" AND "MARIA"

Names of White House Kittens, Property of "Samantha."

Washington, Dec. 28.—"Samantha," a mature and motherly cat, long favorite pet of the White House, has brought added joy to the hearts of the younger Roosevelt children by bringing into the world a pair of kittens. The youngsters, greatly tickled by reason of this unexpected present, put the kittens in a basket, took them upstairs to father and said that as the new pets were born on Christmas day he must supply them with appropriate names. The president at first demurred, but eventually yielded to the insistence of the children. With one of his inscrutable grins which have often proved puzzling alike to friends and enemies he declared that the name of one kitten should be "Bellamy" and the name of the other should be "Maria."

LONG DOOR DUEL.

Washington, Dec. 28.—"Waitz me around again, Willie," has been changed to "Run me around again John," as the result of a bloodless but ludicrous affray between Representative John Wesley Gaines, of Tennessee, and a man in Washington who is known as a public agent.

As the story goes, Gaines and the publicity agent engaged in an altercation in the rotunda of a leading hotel, which concluded in an invitation to Gaines to "step out on the sidewalk and take a kicking." The publicity agent with the invitation was accepted somewhat discouraged Gaines would be antagonist, who led the way toward the street.

When a big revolving door leading into Pennsylvania avenue was reached the publicity agent's courage shrunk completely. Instead of passing into the street he calmly followed the door around in a circle, the late Gaines at his heels. Around and around went the pursued and the pursuer with ever increasing velocity, each in his separate compartment dragging his heels from under the door, following relentlessly upon his footsteps.

As the compartments flew by the open space leading into the hotel and into the street loud words resounded, only to be muffled a moment later as the compartment sped into the "tunnel" on either side of the doorway. Finally Gaines is reported to have become exhausted from the chase, the publicity agent vanished.
